Short Biography

I have been a Research Fellow in the Science, Technology and Society Research Cluster since 2010. My majority appointment is now at Tembusu College. I have been researching technology in society since the late 1990s, beginning my career in Human-Computer Interaction. Since my PhD studies I have been researching internet and mobile technologies, with my focus on the internet in Asia for the last ten years. My recent work has been focusing on machine intelligence and society and digital urban models.
