

Ms Immanuela Asa RAHADINI

linkedin.com/in/asarahadi | twitter.com/asa_rahadi | asarahadi.medium.com |

Education

- B.Soc.Sci (Hons) in Political Science, National University of Singapore
-

Professional Experience

JULY 2022 – PRESENT

Research Assistant, Asia Research Institute, NUS

- Involvement in the “Plastics Waste and Women’s Household Practices in Asia and Australia” project.
 - Assisted with household ethnography on plastic waste management in Singapore
 - Performing archival search on the portrayals of plastics and plastics-adjacent materials and technology on printed mass media in Singapore

SEPTEMBER 2021 – MARCH 2022

Research Intern, Saw Swee Hock School of Public Health, NUS

- Researched on existing literatures about precision public health and data sharing framework in healthcare; organised relevant themes for roundtable discussions about data sharing in healthcare.
 - Conducted a qualitative analysis on five roundtable sessions; co-created a White Paper on responsible data sharing in health and healthcare with two other research assistants
-

Research Area/Topic/Discipline

Plastic (dis)uses, consumerism, diaspora politics

Short Biography

Immanuela Asa Rahadini completed her BSocSci (Hons) in Political Science at the National University of Singapore (NUS). She is currently working as a research assistant on the “Plastic Waste and Women’s Household Practices in Asia and Australia” project. She also assists with other research work within the Asian Migration Cluster at ARI.